A Maverick Challenges School

By Robert E. Finneran
Managing Editor

The Doherty school addition is in trouble.

A thinking young man, a maverick, a self-confessed oddball, intends to present facts and figures as to why the proposed $1,900,500 addition is not needed and that the present school facilities are adequate for Andover's school needs at the town meeting possibly on Saturday.

While his figures were not divulged, but will be when the school proposal is presented, Dr.

Francis Griggs, a newcomer to Andover politics, feels they are substantial and substantiated.

"The '60's are over," Dr. Griggs emphasizes, in his presentation.

He refers to the growth of the town in the decade just passed, and the changing climate in which we live.

He points out that the economic climate has changed, noting that engineers are out of work, that they are moving from Andover to other areas where their talents are needed.

Elected in a stunning upset in the town election this year, Dr. Griggs, a Merrimack college professor in the engineering department, confesses to using figures to support his claims against the need of additional classroom space.

"As an engineer, we have to sift through the figures to come up with proper evaluations.

"I think I can present to town meeting figures which will show we don't need the addition to the school, and, in fact, we have enough space to accommodate the needs for several years," the new school committeeman states.

"There is a lack of real planning on the part of the school department as to the need for an addition," Dr. Griggs states.

"I am convinced, and I will try to convince the voters at town meeting, that we can comfortably accommodate the elementary school population, within the buildings that we have."

Would addition of the Doherty building, with a promised moratorium on all new school building be a satisfying answer?

"No," Dr. Griggs emphasizes, stating the addition is definitely not needed, based on factual in-

Native, Historian To Be Speaker At Anniversary

Dr. Donald B. Cole, an Andover native and historian, has been chosen as the principal speaker for the 325th Anniversary banquet scheduled for Friday, May 28 at the Phillips Academy gymnasium.

The banquet will be the beginning program of the weekend long observance of the 325th anniversary of the incorporation of the town.

Dr. Cole is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Cole, 16 High St., and a graduate of Phillips Academy.

He is a Ph.D. degree recipient from Harvard University and a cum laude graduate from the same institution.

He has been a member of the history department at Phillips Exeter Academy since 1947.

Dr. Cole is the author of several publications, among them "Lawrence: The Immigrant City," and a recent publication on New Hampshire history.

He is currently in Washington, D.C. doing research work on

Dr. Donald Cole

President Martin Van Euren.

The committee felt that Dr. Cole's knowledge of Andover and his historical background made him a choice selection to lead the town's initial program for the anniversary observance.

The program will be preceded by a catered dinner. Those not able to attend the dinner may attend the program to follow, some seating will be available.

In addition to the banquet, the

Bulldozer In Shop For Repairs

The town's bulldozer, used to crumple and compact material at the sanitary disposal site, otherwise known as the dump, is hors de combat, less than a week after voters decided against its replacement.

The 'dozer has been taken to the factory in Hopkinton for repairs, estimated by Public Works Director Robert McQuade to cost in the vicinity of $8,000.

Rented equipment, at the tune of $200 per day is being used to properly compact the materials at the dump until the town machine-

School Budget Cut By Record Town Meeting

Voters Monday night cut the annual school budget by $117,000 as a record turnout of 1,409 residents inched along the 79-article warrant without substantial progress.

In voting the reduced amounts, the voters were in effect, rejecting the establishment of a computer center and a person to staff and implement the program.

The action followed a recommendation by William Coderre, Stinson Road, who had moved for the reduced amount at the opening session a week ago.

The issue was debated for almost two hours, before Moderator Arthur Williams entertained a motion to end debate and vote on the issues.

Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert, superintendent of schools, explained the use of the computer and was supported by Edward Regan, principal of the Doherty school, who explained education of the 70s.

Dr. Seifert said the computer would result in savings within the school system over the years.

Dr. Francis E. Griggs, newly elected school committeeman, argued for the cutting of the center from the budget and suggested that additional cuts could be made in the school budget.

It was obvious from the outset that the computer was doomed from the attitude of the massive audience.

When a speaker suggesting adoption of the budget as presented said he was president of the Bancroft PTA, a roar of obvious dissent ran through the auditorium. When Coderre went to the microphone to add to his presentation of a week ago, he was welcomed by an uproar of applause.

As the crowd continued to come into the auditorium, Moderator Williams had to stop the proceedings and ask some of the voters to move to the cafeteria downstairs.

In doing so, he named Atty. Marco Pettoruto as assistant moderator to handle the voting and

May Move School Item Up Saturday

There is a probability that Article 70 for appropriation of funds to construct an addition to the Doherty School will be decided Saturday, even if the town does not complete town meeting business by adjournment of the day's session, according to the town manager's office.

Now, it seems, it's up to the voters to decide. But it may really be up to the contractors, to decide, instead. What if the bid today comes in at more than $1,900,500?

Superintendent Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert said that if a critical situation develops when the bids are opened today, he will call an emergency meeting of the school committee to make his recom-

Memorial Hall Library

Mrs. Ruth Berthold

Staff

Take a person with an excellent background in literature, a love of people and an outstanding memory and you have a "born" librarian. Ruth Berthold is such a person and, as all her known and unknown friends of the library will tell you, Memorial Hall Library is lucky to have her. Known to the rest of the staff as the expert "Readers Adviser," she is known to all library borrowers as the person who found just the right book at the right time.

Ruth is married to Wolf Berthold, a local citizen equally well known in Andover for his participation in community affairs since his retirement from Western Electric in 1963. The Bertholds live at 179 Shawshen Road, they have two daughters, both married, one of whom is an architect and the other a social worker. Ruth started working at Memorial Hall Library in 1959. Her main work is done at the Circulation Desk, but she is also an assistant to Mrs. Schaafe in the Interlibrary Loan Department on the days Mrs. Schaafe attends classes. A New Yorker at birth, Ruth attended Columbia University and New York University as well as completing a course in a business school.

Since 1963 the Bertholds have taken many wonderful trips together, including in their travels Europe, India, Ceylon, South America and the West Coast. They are known for their large number of foreign friends and through organizations and personal activities, have done a tremendous amount to foster international friendship. Ruth is an active member of the International Institute of Lawrence and is a member of the League of Women Voters, ABC, and ACEO in Andover. She does not do handicrafts! She does enjoy cooking from her husband's large garden produce in the summer.

Great Books

The next meeting of the Great Books Discussion Group will be held on Tuesday evening at 7:30 on March 23. The discussion on that evening will center on the play J. E. by Archibald MacLeish. Read it and come to the place where the action is: the Print Room at Memorial Hall Library on March 23.

Stories

Mrs. William Towle has accepted the role of story-teller at the Little Listeners program for the Robin Group. The Robins meet every other Tuesday morning at 10:30 a.m. Mrs. Towle is very well qualified for the role of story-teller at the library. She has two small boys of her own attending Montessori School in Bradford, and she has worked as Children's Librarian in two branch libraries of the public library system in Los Angeles, Calif. Mrs. Towle has a B.S. in Library Science from Simmons School of Library Science. The next meeting of the group is March 23.

Films

The Senior Citizens will have their film showing today at the Baptist Church, March 18 at 2 p.m. The attendance is growing every time; come out and enjoy friends, films, and food with the group.

History

What books would you pick as the ones which have had the greatest influence on history? The library has a new exhibit of the books picked by Robert E. Downs as the "Books That Changed America." Some of them are the ones you would have picked: Common Sense, Uncle Tom's Cabin, The Affluent Society. But others you may not have chosen or even known about. Come to browse and see the writings one person believes have exerted the greatest impact on our national history.

Pink Champagne and hors d'oeuvres will precede the dinner and dancing until midnight will climax the evening.

Mrs. Donald Carrine is general chairman of the Ball Committee and honorary chairman is chapter president, Mrs. Leonard Peltier. Mrs. Harry Goodwin is in charge of the hors d'oeuvres table.

This is the principal fund-raising event each season for Beta Mu and tickets are available from members of the general committee, which also includes, Mrs. Peter Allison, Mrs. Everett Belisle, Mrs. Clyde Drumfield, Mrs. Martin Caughey, Mrs. Peter Correia, Mrs. Carl DeFranco, Mrs. Paul Derby, Mrs. Gus Fabiani, Mrs. Ruth Farrington, Mrs. Anthony Foresta, Mrs. Nicholas Gregory, Mrs. John Hoelzel, Mrs. Stig Larson, Mrs. Neal Mitton, Mrs. George Saalfrank, Mrs. Walter Selfridge, Mrs. Ray Taylor, Mrs. Gerald Walker and Mrs. George Walsh.

Among other issues, to pursue, are an evaluation of the open school concept.

On this matter, Dr. Griggs that testing procedures standardized through a system.

Until this year, public was different for Andover town's first open concept.

Since that time, West has gone on the open, rather structured type school.

These facts are contained in birth rates, new home construction and economic conditions, as opposed to school committee figures, their magic number being an enrollment increase of 300 annually -- a figure which has diminished in recent years.

There are, he points out, factors governing the growth of the town in the next several years. The economy of the area is a most prevalent point, but so too is the decreasing birth rate, due to the economy and other factors.

All of which he states unequivocally dictate there is no need for any elementary school construction at this time.

This is but one point -- albeit a major one -- in his approach to his new responsibilities as Andover's newest school committeeman.

We mentioned he is a self-confessed oddball.

He states that he is not always right, but he has information and figures to support his stands.

The native of Valley Falls, New York, is the son of a construction worker.

He doesn't smoke, "Because I don't want to," he may take a drink, "If I feel like it," and he disagrees, "because if you feel you're right, you are proper in doing so."

The notion of becoming a school committeeman had been in his mind for some time.

But it did not become a sudden urge until the Sunday night before the deadline for filing nomination papers this year.

"Several people had asked me to be a candidate and right up until Saturday night before the deadline I felt I didn't want to go through with it.

"Then suddenly on Sunday there were just two candidates for the two seats.

"I couldn't see the race going by default, so I decided to run."

In his campaign he raised some interesting issues, ones which apparently are coming home to rest on the town meeting floor.

Whether he wins or loses, he has stirred interest in school and town affairs.

Among other issues, he intends to pursue, are an evaluation of the open school concept.

On this matter, Dr. Griggs notes that testing procedures should be standardized throughout the system.

Until this year, pupil testing was different for Rancroft, the town's first open concept school.

Since that time, West school has gone on the open, rather than the structured type school system.

"A proper evaluation is among the reasons for dropping the Doherty school addition at this time, since it, too, will be developed on the open concept theory," the school committeeman states.

He also wants to see the mailing of complete minutes of meetings to all members of the media, including executive sessions.

The executive sessions have minutes recorded. He feels that once a decision is made, with the exception of personality involvement, it should be made public. This includes discussions of teacher salary negotiations, Dr. Griggs feels.

He would also like to see a questionnaire sent to residents of the community to determine what they desire and what are the issues in public education.

"Your Schools," a publication produced by the school department and forwarded to all taxpayers of the community, is described as a "propaganda" item by the school committeeman.

He would rather see participatory involvement by the residents, indicating what it is they wish to see performed by the school administration for their tax dollars.

Of Dr. Griggs, it must be said he is different and brings a new view to the school committee. A maverick?

Maybe. An oddball -- well, 3,960 voters don't think so and apparently are counting on him to save money and still produce quality education in Andover.

A difficult task?

Frank Griggs doesn't think so. Not after doing a little homework.

West Wins Hoop, Hockey Tournament

The 4th and 5th grade boys basketball team from West Elementary School defeated the 6th grade team and captured the first annual Schoolboy Basketball Tournament sponsored by the Andover Recreation Department.

Led by Jeff Bragdon and Robert Zwicker, who had 7 and 5 points respectively, the 4th and 5th grade team came alive over the final two periods and pulled ahead of the older team. It wasn't until the last period that the 20 to 15 victory was decided.

Team members; Jeff Bragdon, Stephen Phillips, Robert Zwicker, George Bragdon and Timothy Rodden.

The West Elementary Hockey Team defeated Sanborn, 2-0, in the final match of the Schoolboy Hockey Tournament.

Tom Lawler scored with both goals for the West team on some fine play setting by Robert MacMackin who had assists on both goals. On the other end of the rink some excellent goal tending by Noel Shaw, who constantly came out of the net to make the saves, enabled the West team to maintain the shut-out.

Team members: James Tweedie, Robert MacMackin, Matt Billings, William McGuire, John Holdsworth, Kevin Lynch, Thomas Lawler, Noel Shaw, Richard Dowe, Bart Newland, Thomas Fogarty, John Cowdery and Stephen Phillips.

Certificates will be presented to the winning teams by the Recreation Department this week.

Amblyopia Clinic Is Scheduled

The Andona Society will conduct a vision screening program at Christ Church from Monday, March 22 through Friday, March 26 for the three hundred children in the pre kindergarten orientation group of the Andover School system. The program is jointly sponsored by the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Blindness, the Andover Board of Health, and the School Department. Mrs. David Barrett, Andona's amblyopia chairman, will direct the program with the assistance of Mrs. James Garrett, Mrs. Frank Dyer and a group of Andona volunteers, all of whom have attended a special course given by the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

Amblyopia, sometimes called lazy eye, is a condition of reduced or dim vision in an eye which appears to be normal. Left undetected it often causes blindness. However, it can be corrected if discovered early enough. Ideally every child should be visually screened before his fifth birthday. The sooner a child with this condition receives proper treatment the better are his chances of regaining normal vision. If a child's performance during the screening program indicates that a vision problem may exist, the parents will be advised to arrange a professional eye examination.

The Andona Society has been conducting annual vision screening programs in Andover for the past five years. This year it is holding an early session for the pre kindergarten group. The program for the general public will be held on April 13 and 14 from 1:30 to 4:30 at Christ Church. Parents of preschool children not included in the school departments' pre kindergarten group are urged to bring their children on April 13 or 14.

Named Vice President Of Firm

Lawrence C. VerPlanck

At the annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the H. K. Webster Company, Inc. of Lawrence, recently, Lawrence C. VerPlanck was elected a vice president. Mr. VerPlanck is also president of the H. K. Webster Stores of N.Y., Inc. and responsible for directing the company's operations in the Empire State. Currently the Webster Company's subsidiary has two Satellite Dairy Feed Plants, at Chatham and Watertown, and a Satellite Poultry Feed Plant at Maybrook.

Mr. VerPlanck is a native of Salem. He attended primary schools in Salem and graduated from Phillips Exeter Academy in 1944. After serving with the United States Army in Europe in World War II he went on to Cornell University, where he majored in agricultural economics and obtained his degree in 1949.

He joined the Grange League Federation of New York in 1949 and served GLF, now Agway, Inc. in a variety of capacities during the 1950's. In 1961 he became District Manager for Southern New Jersey. Then, in 1965, he decided to go into business for himself and he established his own firm, General Business service, specializing in accounting and tax counseling.

Mr. VerPlanck returned to the feed business in January 1966 when he joined the H. K. Webster Company. He was immediately assigned to the planning and directing of the Webster Company's expansion program in New York State. His success in this endeavor very likely means that new construction and further expansion by the Webster Company can be anticipated in the next few years.

Mr. VerPlanck and his wife, the former Gwendolyn Rogers, of Trowbridge, England, reside at 20 Bannister Road. They have a daughter Judy, a student at West Junior High School, a son William who attends Cornell University and a married daughter, Margaret, who lives in New York City.

Dick Ferguson

Ferguson Co-Captain Of Gym Team

A former Andover High gymnastics standout has become a top competitor for Boston State College -- and he's only a sophomore.

Dick Ferguson, who competed for two years at A.H.S. under Joe Dorsey -- now his coach at Boston State -- was elected co-captain of the 1970-71 team as a sophomore and is one of the best ring men around.

"Dick has been a consistent performer for us," said Dorsey. "Despite a lot of injuries, which depleted our ranks in some events, Dick has always scored well when it counted. He's a good learner, always working to improve himself."

Besides Ferguson and Coach Dorsey, Boston State claims two other Andover gymnastics products -- freshmen Ed Simpson and Tim Wright.

"Ed was bothered by an injury at the start of the season and hasn't been competing," said Dorsey. "But Timmy has come on like gangbusters. He's one of our top All-Around men, and he's only a freshman."

Boston State will host the 4th Annual Intercollegiate Gymnastic Championship Saturday, March 6, at Warrior Gym. A field of 21 schools has entered.

The following girls have, to date, completed requirements for the Dancer Badge: Shari Aznoian, Lili Aram, Lisa Buccheri, Jane Cameron, Drusie Colby, Cynthia Coombs, Cathy Fitzgerald, Patricia Foner, Celeste Grande, Carol Hall, Patrice Keegan, Elise Paradis, Patricia Pelc, Mary Lou Petrella, Catherine Sheehy, Maureen Sheehy, Laureanne Sheehy, Virginia Stevenson, Kathleen Sullivan, Patricia Walsh, Paige Whitley, Ellen Wilkinson.

She and her husband, the late Dr. Otto Mandl, and their two children became naturalized British subjects during this period. In London, where they made their home during this time, Mme. Kraus is especially remembered for her performances at the famous pre-war musical receptions held at the Austrian Legation by the Austrian Minister, Sir George Frankenstein.

Flower Exchange To Open

This week's sure sign of Spring: the 100th New England Spring Flower Show opened Saturday, March 13 at Suffolk Downs, East Boston. It continues through Sunday, March 21. The oldest show of its kind in the country, it recalls the great importance of the greenhouse industry to Massachusetts. Governor William Endicott established the first flower nursery in the New World in Salem in 1640, and Peter Faneuil, the Boston merchant, had America's first greenhouse about 1735.

Today, the flower and plant industry in the state is truly enormous. Millions of plants and cut flowers are produced here annually, with a total value to local growers of nearly $30,000,000.

In the same connection, the New Boston Flower Exchange, latest move in the history of the oldest such wholesale operation in the country, has its grand opening on Sunday, March 21. A brand-new complex of buildings, with plenty of storage, selling and parking space, on Albany Street, Boston, beside the Southeast Expressway, houses some 30 firms under one roof, displaying and selling plants and flowers from all over the world.

It is the central marketplace for the florist industry of all six New England states. Originally for growers only, the Flower Exchange today comprises wholesalers and commission salesmen as well. Truly an "Open market," it operates to level prices according to supply and demand.

Within its 73,000 square feet, buyers and sellers get together daily to deal in everything to do with the flower industry. The new exchange opened its doors December 1, 1970, after some five years in the planning.

Flower Exchange To Open

This week's sure sign of Spring: the 100th New England Spring Flower Show opened Saturday, March 13 at Suffolk Downs, East Boston. It continues through Sunday, March 21. The oldest show of its kind in the country, it recalls the great importance of the greenhouse industry to Massachusetts. Governor William Endicott established the first flower nursery in the New World in Salem in 1640, and Peter Faneuil, the Boston merchant, had America's first greenhouse about 1735.

Today, the flower and plant industry in the state is truly enormous. Millions of plants and cut flowers are produced here annually, with a total value to local growers of nearly $30,000,000.

In the same connection, the New Boston Flower Exchange, latest move in the history of the oldest such wholesale operation in the country, has its grand opening on Sunday, March 21. A brand-new complex of buildings, with plenty of storage, selling and parking space, on Albany Street, Boston, beside the Southeast Expressway, houses some 30 firms under one roof, displaying and selling plants and flowers from all over the world.

It is the central marketplace for the florist industry of all six New England states. Originally for growers only, the Flower Exchange today comprises wholesalers and commission salesmen as well. Truly an "Open market," it operates to level prices according to supply and demand.

Within its 73,000 square feet, buyers and sellers get together daily to deal in everything to do with the flower industry. The new exchange opened its doors December 1, 1970, after some five years in the planning.

Teacher Contract Signed

The school committee and the representatives of Andover Education Association signed a new contract Tuesday night that Superintendent Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert called "the best contract in the state of Massachusetts" because of three key elements.

(1) Teachers had agreed with the school committee to remove the time stipulation on the length of the working day, moving to "the judgment of administrators and teachers on the professional use of their time."

(2) Teachers have agreed with the school committee to remove the stipulation on what the teacher-pupil ratio should be, so as to allow the school committee and administration the flexibility to arrange for different types of grouping - some much larger, some smaller. These are acts of faith and rare moves, said Seifert, since in other communities teachers are trying to tighten up the restrictions on the community's use of their time.

(3) Specialists will be spending more time in the actual classroom, helping the classroom teacher, through another article worked out in the contract.

Seifert complimented the school committee negotiators, headed by Mrs. Virginia Cole until her election defeat and the ASA representatives for working long and hard to achieve a "truly professional contract."

AEA president Robert Carroll said he was proud of the contract, but the work was just begun. "It will take lots of work, working together, to get the educational results from it that we all want."

To Conduct Horse Clinic

A vaccination clinic for horses will be held in April for the prevention of equine encephalomyelitis (sleeping sickness).

Causes of the disease are through various viruses and transmission by primarily mosquitoes, although other insects are carriers.

Immunization lasts about six months.

The clinic will be conducted by the 4-H Boots and Saddle club in an effort to prevent deaths of many horses in the New England area as occurred last year.

In addition, tetanus shots will also be given.

The disease is detected in its early stages of infection, when a horse is observed walking about aimlessly.

Defending champ West Parish A swept to its third Andover Church Basketball League Junior Division title in the last four years recently, defeating both St. Robert's A and St. Robert's B in a three-way playoff for the crown.

The three clubs had finished the regular season with identical 9-1 records, forcing the playoff. In the "semi-final playoff" at the West Junior High gym, West A eliminated St. Robert's A, 16-6. West A and St. Robert's B then locked horns for the championship before several hundred fans at the East Junior High gym, and West A emerged with a hard-fought 11-7 triumph.

The West Parish A quintet thus concluded the year with an 11-1 record, while both St. Robert's teams ended with 9-2 slates. West A has now finished first in 1968, 1970 and 1971, compiling an overall record of 56-2 in the last four seasons and going undefeated twice.

Following the West A - St. Robert's B clash, a pair of All-Star games were played. The Junior All-Stars handed an undermanned St. Robert's A club a 15-4 defeat, while Intermediate Division champion West Parish 2 edged the Intermediate All-Stars, 31-25.

The annual foul-shooting contest, in which all boys participate, was also held that same evening. The contest consists of five shots from around the key area and five free throws. The boy with the top percentage in each division wins a pair of athletic shoes.

Mitch Rousseau of St. Robert's B was the best Junior Division marksman, hitting 8-of-10 shots for 80 percent. Miles Coates of St. Robert's 1 beat all other Intermediate shooters, swishing a blistering 9-of-10 for 90 percent.

West A 11, St. Robert's B 7 -- West Parish A jumped out to a quick 4-0 lead after two minutes of the first quarter, as Co-Capt. Paul Rosetti and Jeff Smith tossed in 10-foot baseline set shots.

But Co-Capt. Mitch Rousseau, who accounted for all 7 St. Robert's B points, came back to swish a pair of jumpers and pull his team into a 4-4 deadlock after one period.

Buckets by Co-Capt. Mark Conlon and Jon Crush of West A gave the champs an 8-4 lead at half-time. Rosetti pumped in another basket midway through the third canto to boost West A into a 10-4 lead, but Rousseau countered with a pair of charity tosses to cut the gap to 10-6.

Rosetti and Rousseau traded fourth quarter free throws to close out the scoring, and give West A its exciting 11-7 victory.

Dave Alexander turned in a fine defensive performance for the titlists, drawing the difficult assignment of covering the dangerous Rousseau 1-on-1. Paul Rosetti and Jon Crush were strong off the boards, while Mark Conlon (who is the only West A player to have competed on all three championship teams) set up the offensive attack and chipped in with several key defensive steals.

For St. Robert's B, Co-Capt. Billy McGuire, Jay Caputo, Kris Larson and Allen Beaumier combined with Rousseau in a tough-to-break zone defense that held West A to one of its lowest point totals of the season.

McGuire, Rousseau and Larson also did some rugged rebounding to keep the final outcome in doubt right up to the game-ending horn.

The West A triumph also gave the victors a measure of revenge, as St. Robert's B had scored an 11-10 win earlier in the season. That particular result snapped a 29-game West A win streak, and is the team's only loss in its last 38 contests.

West A 16, St. Robert's A 6 -- West A led 3-0 after one quarter, 6-2 at the half and 12-4 after three periods en route to the 16-6 victory.

Paul Rosetti again sparked the playoff win by pumping through 9 points, while Mark Conlon swished 4 points and Jon Crush stuffed 3 points for West A.

Dave Alexander, Jeff Smith, Brian Bronson, Frank Comparato and Bruce Etter also turned in excellent two-way efforts for the winners.

Bobby Murray, Brent Goldstein and Todd Orlando each swished 2 points for St. Robert's A. Bobby Murray also pulled down quite a few rebounds in the pivot, while Tommy Saunders, Larry Weitz, Owen Keegan and Scott Goldstein contributed standout floor games for the losers.

Jr. Stars 15, St. Robert's A 4 -- The Junior Division All-Stars exploded for an 8-0 lead after one quarter, and then coasted the rest of the way.

Ricky Collins of Baptist led the way by firing in 6 points, while Alan Gould of South stuffed 4 points, Dave Wilson of Free Church scooped in 3 points and Larry Lamagna of St. Augustine A canned one basket.

Glen Brody of West Parish B and Dan Mulligan also played well for the 'Stars.'

Todd Orlando and Brent Goldstein netted 2 points apiece for St. Robert's A, while other spark-plugs were Owen Keegan, Tommy Saunders, Scott Goldstein and Glen Sutherland. The absence of Bobby Murray and Larry Weitz weakened the St. Robert's attack quite a bit.

West 2, 31, Intermediate Stars 25 -- In spite of the fact that West 2 was playing without its "big three" of Greg Brown, Dave Vivian and Bob Scribner, the division champs still managed to handle the All-Stars.

The game was tied 6-6 after one quarter and 11-11 at the half. West 2 led 23-20 after three cantos, before holding an 8-5 point edge in the last quarter.

Mark Hewett hit for 12 points to pace West 2. Bob MacMackin laid in 10 points, Tommy Devlin dunked 5 points, Rich Chilson had 2 points and Steve Brody added 2 markers for the victors.

Dave Coulthard of West 1 led seven All-Star players into the scoring column with 7 points. Barry Bronson, Dana Gould of South Church and Don McDonald swished 4 points each, Ed Orlando had 3 points, Mark Hamilton 2 points and Dave Lockwood tossed in a free throw.

Following are the final Junior and Intermediate Division standings:

Hoop Team Awards Day

The Andover Church Basketball League Junior Division champion West Parish A team recently held an awards' day and Father-Son game at the Sanborn School gym.

Capt. Mark Conlon and Dave Alexander selected the teams in the Father-Son tilt, with the opposing clubs each containing several adults and several youngsters. The only handicap placed on the Fathers was that they were required to shoot left-handed.

The game was close and hard-fought all the way, with the Conlons finally pulling out a 41-38 victory over the Alexanders.

For the winners, Mark Conlon and Billy Alexander pumped in 10 points apiece, Rick Harrison had 8 points, Paul Rosetti 5 points, Brian Bronson 4 points and Darel Myers 4 points.

Wayne and Pete Newton, along with Joel Smith, contributed some excellent all-around play for the victors.

Joe Rosetti led all scorers in the contest, tossing in 12 points for the losers. Doug Alexander and Dave Alexander popped in 8 points apiece, Jon Crush had 4 points, Glen Prody 2 points, Jim Myers 2 points and Jeff Myers 2 points. Bruce Etter also starred.

Individual trophies were awarded at the midway point of the game, with the various winners being chosen the week before by balloting of the players themselves.

Mark Conlon was selected Most Valuable Player of the 'A' team, while Dave Bradner won the 'B' team MVP trophy. Jon Crush was chosen Rookie-of-the-Year, and Dave Alexander was voted the Most Improved Player.

Paul Rosetti earned the High Scorer trophy, while Pete Newton was selected for the Sportsmanship Award.

Mark Conlon was also presented a special plaque in recognition of his four years with West A, during which time the team won three championships, went undefeated twice, won 29 straight games at one point and compiled a 56-2 overall record. Mark was co-captain this past year.

The program will include a new version of Hansel and Gretel adapted for children in story form with narration, a modern dance interpretation entitled "Internal Struggle" which will dramatically portray man's deepest mental and moral conflicts, and the familiar classic, Swan Lake, as the third and main ballet. Programs Planned At Church

Three diverse, adult programs will be offered at the Andover Unitarian-Universalist Church on Lowell St., next week. All are open to area residents without charge.

On Sunday evening at 6:45, "Ferry Beach Night" features Robert Knight, president of the Ferry Beach Assn., which operates the Unitarian-Universalist summer camp near Casco, Maine.

On Tuesday, (March 23) at 8 p.m. a well-known artist and relatively new area resident, Mrs. Ilse Schenk of North Reading, presents "A Study in Visual Thinking" - an illustrated slide lecture and discussion.

And on Wednesday, March 24, also at 8 p.m., Miss Marjorie Sherman of Methuen will informally show slides she took during a trip to the Far East during 1970.

Mrs. Schenk, whose husband, Abraham, created the famous Winnie-The-Pooh book illustrations, asks the question "How does nature solve its own engineering problems? Can natural form, nature's solution to its own problems, provide guiding principles for man?"

In the belief that there is an integral relationship between the two, Mrs. Schenk - an industrial designer and sculptor - has developed a slide-illustrated lecture and discussion of natural form and phenomena vs. man-made form.

She is a native of Vienna and received early art training in Paris. Later, she studied industrial design at the Pratt Institute in New York City, where she worked for some time. She has lived for a number of years in both Chile and Brazil.

Prior to moving to North Reading a year ago, Mrs. Schenk taught design in Israel for two years. There, she continued to develop the material and slides which will be seen next Tuesday evening.

Mr. Schenk, who shares his wife's interest in design, is a native of Russia, and spent many years in the retail advertising field. The couple have a small workshop in North Reading, where their time is devoted to sculptured forms in lighting and ceramics.

The three programs next week are being presented by the Adult Education Committee of the Unitarian-Universalist Church.

Editorial Comment

Decision

This year's annual town meeting, dragging on as it has, indicates a need for a thorough study of the system and the manner of operation.

Monday night, the town achieved one of the largest audiences for a regular town meeting in its history.

To accommodate the gathering, additional seating facilities were needed.

One might suggest that the gymnasium at the new high school might be a better place for the annual meeting.

We will not go into the issue of a representative town meeting, an item discussed by the townspeople before, and due for consideration again at this year's annual session.

Its merits can be debated both pro and con.

But, as long as town meeting is dictated by the statutes and town bylaws, it must be accommodated.

There is little doubt that interest in town affairs this year is much more prevalent than in years past.

It is a prudent public attending town meeting this year, a group of interested people concerned about their economic future.

Will the attitude continue a year from now?

This is anyone's guess.

But the situation remains - accommodation of those interested in attending.

It would seem appropriate that some consideration be given to use of the high school gymnasium, where the annual session was held a few years ago.

With proper floor covering and adequate seating, all residents interested in attending town meeting could be accommodated.

Also to be considered is the availability of audio-visual equipment to all voters.

Monday night slides were shown to those seated in the front part of the auditorium, while those on the stage and in the cafeteria were not provided with the information.

This is not being critical of those in charge of town meeting, since their limitations prohibit provisions for all facilities.

But in a single large room, such as the high school gym, a single showing of slides could be seen by all.

Possibly too, the school department's audio-visual department, could provide some closed circuit television coverage for all areas in view of the fact that the town has provided for the equipment.

Basically, town meeting, as we now know it, is becoming an unwieldy piece of municipal machinery.

Thorough study is needed and some changes made in order to make it more operable.

Commendable

The custodial staff of the school department seldom gets much credit for anything.

They do their job and it is accepted as being a necessity.

But they are a devoted crew of men, who take their jobs responsibly, not just as an everyday task.

Such attention to duty was best exemplified Monday night at town meeting.

The custodians, under the direction of Carl Holt were ready for the overflow crowd which filled Memorial Auditorium.

Seats were provided on the stage and the cafeteria was all set up when the voters turned out in record numbers.

The men were ready for any emergency, per usual.

Too often, in this life, we take things for granted.

So, to the custodial staff, hats off, for a job well done.

Safety

With the advent of better weather, attention must be given to safety.

As the warmer weather approaches, we notice more bicycles along the roadways.

While they are a commendable and exercising mode of transportation, bicycles must also be governed by safety regulations.

Too often, we see the bikes being used on sidewalks in the downtown area.

Many times cyclists ride in pairs or in groups, thus jeopardizing free use of the travelled way.

These are dangerous practices and ones to be reserved only for bicycle paths, which exist in some areas.

As the spring weather approaches it behooves cyclists and motorists alike to be mindful of each others rights and respect them.

Caution is advised for all.

Off The Top Of The Desk

Parking was a problem to many attending town meeting Monday night.

But those smaller cars certainly had it over the larger models.

The small cars were parked in some of the most unusual places and if one might be so bold as to say in devious ways.

As the motorist attempted to find a location to park his vehicle, he often found a little "monster" almost glaring at him almost as if attaining a superiority status.

The thawing weather of the past few days has shown what a cold winter it has been.

Underneath the melting snow has been seen a solid block of ice.

Insulated by snow and dirt, the ice has remained throughout the winter weather.

Frequent scenes the past week have been residents breaking up winter's residue.

The height of frustration for a canine must be a truckful of bones being carted off in barrels, well beyond reach.

Such was the sight the other day when a rendering firm was leaving a local market, being followed by three mouth-watering canines.

The frustrated mutts were further left in the lurch when the truck had to stop for a traffic light and still they could not reach their quest.

In the future, bank robbers not only will have to wear masks and gloves, but may also have to keep their mouths shut if they don't want to get caught. The voice print system for breaking down a human voice into identifiable unique components was developed at Bell Labs several years ago . . . though unacceptable, so far, as evidence in a court of law, the voice print's status may change because of Professor Lester Gerhardt's experiments at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, New York . . . he is now working on the use of voice prints for positive identification with as much credibility as fingerprints.

The red-winged blackbirds are back and the skunk cabbage is coming up through the snow! Spring is really coming! The Massachusetts Audubon Society's Ipswich River Nature Center and Wildlife Sanctuary on Perkins Row in Topsfield will present one of its favorite family walks, a search for early "Signs of Spring," on Sunday afternoon, March 28. The guided walks will begin at 2. However, due to the increased popularity of this program, the walks will be limited to the first 80 people who come. All others are invited to go on their own walk on the Sanctuary. There is no fee.

An 8-week course, "Home Lawn Care and Management" will be offered at the Essex Agricultural and Technical Institute beginning March 22. The class will meet on 8 Monday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

The course will include the following subjects: introduction to lawn care - characteristics of a good lawn; selecting and buying grass seed; establishing a lawn - preparation of seedbed, seeding and establishing a mowing program; maintaining a lawn; fertilizing, liming, watering; identifying and solving lawn problems and renovating a lawn.

Those interested in enrolling should plan to register in Room 203, McNamara - O'Shea Science Hall at 7:30 p.m., March 22. This course is sponsored in cooperation with the Department of Education, and is offered free of charge.

Executive Director

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

Our fifth grade reading class at Sanborn School, is having a Bill of Rights week. It all started one day when we read about Thomas Jefferson in our reading book, and how he brought about our rights. Then we all started thinking: do we really have all of our rights? So we thought about having a Bill of Rights week.

We were also thinking about the environment we live in. We thought that would be a good idea for our Bill of Rights week. We plan to have a panel discussion with some of the heads of big industries and maybe some of the important people of our government. We wish to remind the readers of this newspaper it is their duty to clean up the environment.

Music To Our Ears

By Edward P. Grigoli

Thomas "Fats" Waller, a pianist with unique ability and style.

He was allowed to take piano and organ lessons in order to prepare him to become a pastor like his father. His announcement to his parents of his desire to make "jazz" music his career was greeted with much grief and chagrin. Not long after this while in his teens, he started playing in Harlem theatres and picture houses.

Here is where he met James P. Johnson, who coached him in music and gave Waller his greatest impetus.

His piano solos and work as a rhythm section pianist with many Jazz groups, point to a jazz feeling and interpretation which is unequalled in many respects.

"Fats" Waller became a prolific recorder and played with many different bands, his spontaneous gaiety which characterized his work was always present in his playing and singing.

In 1934 he started a group which was named "Fats Waller and his Rhythm." This title lasted with him until his last appearance in 1943.

Waller was noted for his ability to take simple pop tunes and turn them into jazz gems.

His biggest record hit was "I'm Gonna Sit Right Down and Write Myself a Letter." Two of the songs that he wrote are: "Ain't Misbehavin'" and "Honeysuckle Rose."

The Andover Fire Department ambulance responded to a total of 15 calls during the same period.

If one lane of a freeway were a railroad it could carry 40,000 people per hour; a bus lane can carry 30,000, and in cars 3,000 people can move along per hour, the Massachusetts Audubon Society reports.

Committee Acceded To Dictates

Tuesday night's school committee meeting made it clear that the school committee is not about to fly in the face of town meeting feeling. The word computer was not mentioned.

Transportation was. Superintendent Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert said that school busing policies must change quickly if they are to adjust to the large cutback in the transportation budget. Likely to be involved are late buses, kindergarten busing and the present walking limit. Transportation is an item that is already partly spent, since it is a steady expense since Jan. 1.

Chairman William King set the next meeting, Tuesday, March 30, for budget adjustment discussion and decision after an administration report and "analysis to determine whether or not the expense budget cuts can be sustained without serious damage to the children's academic program."

King said later that the school committee appreciated that the town's feeling was genuine, that it clearly did not want to spend the money for computer assisted instruction this year; but he added that if a point is valid, it can be made constructively, without vindictiveness.

Local promoter John O'Neal got little sympathy when he appeared to ask $450 retribution for the cancellation of his Jan. 30 dance, at the high school, after disruptions at his dance during the Christmas holidays. His point was that the disruptions were outside the dance, all involving local people, and no reason to cancel his next dance. He also complained that the town's TeenAge Adult Collaborative was allowed to hold a rock concert when he was not, and spoke of the school committee's violation of several state statutes, and possible court action, which he hoped to avoid taking, by getting retribution. The committee pointed out that such decisions, by school committee regulations, are the responsibility of the school committee, and that the whole issue as he well knew, was one of sponsorship (for community rather than private profit) of the facilities. Former chairman Dr. Richard Katz finally invited O'Neal to send his lawyer around.

Chairman King suggested, with High School Principal Phillip Wormwood's wholehearted approval, that the high school furnish the superintendent with a monthly listing of the number of reports to parents on discipline matters, suspensions and the like. This is to provide "internal feedback" on the issue of discipline in the high school so that administration and school committee members will be armed with facts for citizen's questions. It was emphasized that the monthly report will include the numbers of discipline cases, but not names.

Principal Wormwood also asked for the police to have authority, through a school committee letter, to ticket cars that are inappropriately parked at the high school. The school committee agreed.

The meeting was a short one, and good natured, seeming to reflect a relief from the tension of the previous night's town meeting. New member Frank Griggs was absent on an out-of-town commitment.

Chairman King ran through the agenda briskly and was through by 8:45. He cut the meeting off at the end of the agenda, not allowing member Dan Frishman's three "other matters to discuss."

King explained that meetings had run late in the past "because Virginia Cole always had 'others' to bring up, and he intended to go by the agenda." Frishman said he thought this kind of informal discussion was often valuable, and informative, before the matter came up for more formal discussion and decision in a later meeting, but King prevailed.

To Amend Article On Bottles

Proponents of banning non-returnable bottles plan to amend the article at town meeting, in an effort to make the proposal more appealing to the general public.

Thomas Coan, a proponent of the proposed bylaw, said this week that Article 62 of the town meeting warrant will be amended to read that a minimum deposit of four cents be charged for all bottles and cans which contain soft beverages or beer.

The amendment, Coan feels, will allow more latitude in application of the law.

As the bylaw reads as printed in the warrant, and fashioned after one adopted in Bowie, Md., all non-returnable bottles would be banned in Andover after April, 1972.

With the amendment, all bottles and cans may be returned for the four cents deposit.

Coan said that a local resident is interested in beginning a business of picking up bottles and taking them to Connecticut for recycling. A plant in Connecticut is the closest one dealing with such procedure.

He also stated that the amendment would allow sale of all brands of soft drinks and beer in Andover without exception.

The bottles and cans may be returned, including the non-returnables.

Coan feels that the new proposal provides incentive for returning bottles for recycling and will prevent roadside littering, among other problems.

He noted that in the New England area, distributors are using 90 percent non-returnable bottles, as compared to a 50 percent national average.

It is expected that considerable discussion will take place on the article and its amendment.

Shawsheen Booklets Presented

Mrs. Annetta R. Freedman, library director of the Andover public school system, has been presented by the Missile Systems Division of Raytheon Company, West Andover 100 copies of the booklet entitled "Shawsheen." William Marsden of the publications department was instrumental in obtaining these booklets.

The booklet tells how Shawsheen Village and the American Woolen Company were developed through the vision and genius of William M. Wood, who built one of the greatest textile organizations in the world and built Shawsheen Village as a "model city." Mr. Wood believed that comfortable home life would result in greater business efficiency.

The building which Raytheon occupies on Haverhill Street, Shawsheen was formerly the Shawsheen Woolen Mill.

The booklets will be put in every school library where they will be used by the students studying the history of Andover.

Students Seek Funds For Aid Trip

It is no secret that money is tight right now, but members of Merrimack College's Merrimack Corps are faced with a special money problem. They have to raise $6,000 in the next month to finance their annual Easter trip to Appalachia to work in poverty-stricken areas of Kentucky and Missouri.

The money is needed to pay for transportation, room and board for the students who plan to devote their Easter vacations working to help the needy, and to purchase a van to donate to the mission at David, Kentucky.

Last year 45 students went to Appalachia at Easter time. This year 80 students have expressed interest in the project, and 60 have indicated a desire to go to Appalachia. This increased interest is gratifying, as it reflects the spread of the goals of the group, but it also causes problems in placement and in financing. However, Merrimack officers and their advisors, college chaplains Revs. Paul T. Kamide and John J. Shea, O.S.A., have voiced their optimism that Merrimack will succeed in its projects if the community offers its support as it has in the past.

The student organization has an extensive program of fund raising projects underway. The big project at the moment is a raffle, with prizes including a television set, a stereo record player, a $50 bond, and several lesser prizes. The drawing will be held April 1, and members will be selling tickets all this month.

Other Merrimack projects include a car wash March 27, a Sub Shop in the dorms March 29-April 3, and a campaign to solicit contributions from area businessmen and from Merrimack faculty and staff members. Last month members staged a successful bake sale, and another sale may be held later in the year.

Merrimack is willing to work to earn the necessary funds, and the need is increasing as Departure Day draws near. Interested individuals in the community are urged to contact Merrimack Corps, c/o the Chaplain's Office, Merrimack College.

P.A. Student Receives Top Award

David Wallace Andrews, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wallace Andrews of 870 United Nations Plaza, New York, N.Y., has received a Morehead Award to study at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

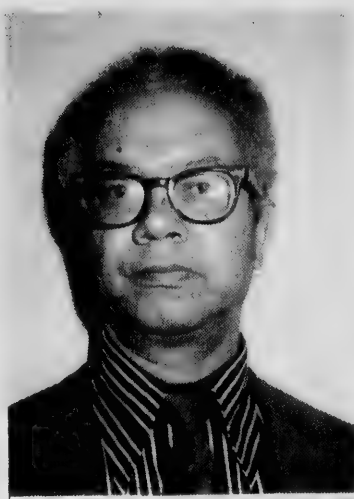

The announcement is made by Hugh G. Chatham of Elkin, N.C., chairman of the John Motley Morehead Foundation.

Andrews is a student at Phillips Academy. He is one of 102 boys to receive the award this year. The awards are worth $11,900 for four years of study at UNC.

Andrews was president of the Student Council, co-chairman of the Blue Key Society, a member of the varsity track team, the soccer team and the wrestling team.

The Morehead Awards were first presented in 1951. They are awarded on the basis of outstanding merit as reflected in academic ability, character and leadership. Need is not considered.

College To Honor Archbishop

A special tribute honoring Boston Archbishop Humberto S. Medeiros has been announced by Merrimack College President Rev. John R. Aherne, O.S.A.

"The life and achievements of Archbishop Medeiros, particularly his humanitarian efforts among the people of the Diocese of Brownsville, Texas, will be appropriately acknowledged at a special convocation on April 1, Father Aherne said upon announcing that communities throughout the Merrimack Valley will be invited to participate with the college in a formal welcome to the newly appointed Archbishop.

The Merrimack president said that the College will be the first in the Commonwealth to award Archbishop Medeiros with an honorary degree. "It is appropriate that Merrimack College, founded at the urging of the late Cardinal Cushing, extend an official hand of welcome and friendship to the new Archbishop. Merrimack College is likewise privileged to award Archbishop Medeiros the honorary degree Doctor of Laws in recognition of his Christian commitment and social involvement which resulted in the bettering of social and economic conditions among migrant farm workers in the Diocese of Brownsville, Texas."

Father Aherne also announced that a community-college program is being planned for the special convocation to be held on April 1, 1971 at 3:45 p.m. in the Collegiate Chapel of Christ the Teacher at Merrimack College. Along with Merrimack students, the Ladies and Men of Merrimack organizations and alumni will be invited to participate with community leaders.

A native of the Azores and a resident of Fall River in his youth, Archbishop Medeiros studied at Catholic University and was ordained a priest for the Diocese of Fall River on June 15, 1946. At Catholic University, he was awarded the Master of Arts degree, the Licentiate in Sacred Theology, and the Doctorate in Sacred Theology. He engaged in further theological studies at the Gregorian University in Rome in 1949-50 and upon his return to Fall River, he served that diocese as Assistant Chancellor and Vicar for Religious.

Subsequently he served as Vice Chancellor and then as Chancellor of the diocese under Most Rev. James L. Connolly, Bishop of Fall River. He was named Domestic Prelate with the title Right Reverend Monsignor in 1958, and pastor of St. Michael's parish, Fall River in 1960, a post he held until being named a Bishop by Pope Paul VI on April 14, 1966. He was ordained to the episcopacy on June 9, 1966, and named second Bishop of the Diocese of Brownsville, Texas, succeeding the Most Rev. Adolph Marx.

Loye In Commended Unit

Colonel John F. Loye, Jr., son of Mrs. John F. Loye, 91 Osgood St., Lawrence, is a member of the dual-purpose organization at Tan Son Nhut AB, Vietnam, that has earned the U.S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award with special "V" device for valor in combat.

The 6250th has the unusual double mission of providing administrative and logistical services for the U.S. Seventh Air Force headquarters staff that directs all USAF operations in the theater. The 6250th also operates six types of aircraft on special missions, including immediate on-call airlift for the commanders of both the U.S. Military Assistance Command and the 7th AF and for U.S. Embassy officials in Vietnam.

The unit was cited for flight operations that involved flying unarmed aircraft and using special air techniques to log more than 17,000 air hours transporting nearly 50,000 passengers and six mission pounds of cargo ranging from jet engines to classified film during the past fiscal year. The 6250th was equally recognized for furnishing exemplary administrative support, conducting an outstanding safety program and sponsoring several health and education civic action projects.

Colonel Loye, a Korean War and 20-year military veteran, will wear a distinctive service ribbon to mark his affiliation with the unit.

With offices at Seventh AF headquarters, the colonel heads a one-of-a-kind program, Project CHECO (Contemporary Historical Evaluation of Combat Operations), to document the Vietnam war on the spot as events occur. Resulting scholastic studies provide a continuity that is expected to make the Southeast Asia conflict the best documented war in history.

Colonel Loye graduated from Phillips Academy in Andover, in 1945, and earned a bachelor of science degree and was commissioned at the U.S. Military Academy in 1950. He has since received a bachelor's degree in business administration from Syracuse University, a master's degree in public administration from George Washington University and his doctorate in education from Florida State University.

His wife is the former Jane A. McKallagat, daughter of Mrs. Frank G. McKallagat, Washington Park Drive.

Dr. James O'Shea, pediatrician and Challenge House Trustee, discussed child discipline in the home and school with the Shawsheen P.T.O. and guests recently.

Dr. O'Shea emphasized the human need for affection and discipline. "Every child wants to be disciplined and loved," he said. Discipline is learned in infancy and grows with the child.

The local pediatrician described the historical evolution of the life of infants and children of thirty years ago, the extreme child demand schedules of ten years ago and the moderate position recommended by doctors today.

The program continued with Dr. O'Shea and Shawsheen Elementary Principal A. Frulla moving from group to group discussing recent theories and answering questions of the parents. Each group was composed of parents, teachers and guidance counselors.

procedures in the downstairs room.

When the vote was called on adoption of the salary budget, the voters approved the lesser amount by 1,072 to 160, thus cutting the amount by $14,000.

Following the vote, William King, chairman of the school committee asked Town Counsel Fredric S. O'Brien to explain the possible consequences of such action.

Counsel said that according to statute a school committee or a group of citizens can go to court to have the amount restored to the budget, plus an additional 25 percent which is applied to next year's tax rate.

King was asked if the committee intended to take such action, and he replied that he would have to await a full meeting of the committee.

The board met Tuesday night with no action taken in this regard.

In the expense budget the computer, along with some funds for school busing was dropped by a vote of 935 to 295.

The only other budget item acted upon was approval of $103,300 for the vocational school.

With the school budget out of the way, the town then moved into the special town meeting which contains three articles, only one of which was acted upon before adjourning the meeting to Saturday.

The article dealt with providing $35,000 for planning funds for a new town hall and possible addition.

Chairman Robert A. Watters presented the article and explained that the funds would allow for architectural planning for town hall facilities.

After almost an hour of discussion on the subject, it was ruled that the article could not be acted upon since it did not have Finance Committee approval.

Dr. Albert Greenberg, chairman of the FinCom explained that they had only received the amended article on Saturday and had not had sufficient time to study it.

Greenberg said that the group had disapproved the article but would allow it to come before town meeting. The FinCom has veto power over money articles in a special town meeting.

He said the FinCom felt strongly that the $548,000 available in a six-year old bond issue to provide a new town hall, should be used for the water treatment plant proposed in Article 36 of the regular town meeting.

The debate continued for some time before town counsel was asked for a ruling as to whether the article could legally be acted upon in view of FinCom disapproval.

Counsel advised that if disapproval was voted, then the article was dead.

With that the meeting adjourned for the night to return to the remaining 75 articles and some additional items in the annual budget.

recommendations on the addition.

If the bid is over, but not by much, the architects may be able to make some design adjustments "which would still be liveable" or apply some leverage on subcontractors through the prime contractor, to bring the bid into line.

But if the bid is too high, Selfert said, he would have to recommend putting the Doherty addition out to rebidding, or postponing the entire project.

In the latter case, could the $92,000 worth of architect's plans and working drawings be kept by the town, and submitted to contractors and to the town meeting at a subsequent town meeting?

"It would be too bad if we couldn't" was the superintendent's rejoinder. "The town has paid $80,000 for them."

Two Andover students in the University of Connecticut's School of Physical Therapy have been named to the Dean's List for the first semester.

Names were Denise J. Drazy, 6 Amherst Road and Hallie D. Kaiser, 238 Main St.

ery is returned to service.

The public works director said this week that the undercarriage and the transmission of the vehicle needed repair and broke down last week.

At the initial session of town meeting, voters rejected the purchase of a new bulldozer for the dump at an estimated cost of $65,000.

Rather they chose to provide $15,000 for repairs to the present machine, with the guarantee period running out this year.

Despite pleas by McQuade and Town Manager J. Maynard Austin for replacement, the meeting insisted that the machine be retained and repaired.

It was explained at the time that the undercarriage was in poor condition and the transmission was about due for replacement.

Such has happened and the compaction machine, required by the state department of health, is now undergoing repair, while a replacement is performing its function.

Andover Youngster A Symbol

Jennifer Swanson, the 11 year-old-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Swanson of Andover, may never know it, but she is a symbol. And so is five year old Cindy Denis, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Denis of Beverly. Because of these two girls, a broadened service is in the making at North Shore Children's Hospital, insuring that no parent or child in northeastern Massachusetts need ever again experience the frustration, confusion and unhappiness that has been Jennifer's and her parents'.

Jennifer is a symbol of the thousands of children born each year in the United States who are unable to hear; a symbol of those who remain undiagnosed as deaf for months, or years as in Jennifer's case, because adequately trained and properly equipped personnel have not been available to discover what is wrong.

And Cindy is a symbol of the children born with a defect -- in her case a cleft lip and palate -- which is quickly recognized and immediately the focus of corrective attention because the right people and the right equipment are available.

To make sure that enough people and the equipment needed for early recognition and treatment of communicative disorders are within easy access of the children of the region, North Shore Children's Hospital is planning expansion of its Communicative Disorders Unit.

In existence for five years, the unit has been instrumental in helping several hundred children with communicative disorders; those born with, or developing, hearing, speech and sight problems to an extent that normal communications are interrupted.

Cindy was one of these. Her birth defect, a cleft lip and palate, was corrected surgically, explained Dr. Charles P. Vallis, a plastic surgeon, organizer, and head of the Cleft Lip and Palate Rehabilitation Team at North Shore Children's.

But almost always this is not enough. The child born with this defect needs speech therapy to be able to speak clearly. He often has ear infections and dental problems, and he and his parents may need help with psychological and emotional reactions to the handicap, Dr. Vallis explained.

Before the formation of his team, the North Shore Children's physician found himself sending children and parents from one doctor to another, with no integrated, comprehensive treatment or control possible. With the formation of his team, Dr. Vallis brought together for the first time on the North Shore a unit comprised of those necessary for such a coordinated program, the plastic surgeon, the pediatric dentist, the orthodontist, the pediatrician, the psychologist, the neurologist, the otolaryngologist, and the speech pathologist-audiologist.

The team, which will be a key segment of North Shore Children's Planned Communicative Disorders Unit when space is available for it to be formed, currently meets once a month -- often in hospital corridors because of lack of space. It examines individual patients, discusses the cases under its care, and plans detailed rehabilitation for each.

For Jennifer, the luck was slower in coming. When she was three, some eight years ago, her parents realized something was wrong. She did not speak, seemed indifferent to what went on around her. Jennifer was tested by a variety of private doctors and clinics, and a variety of diagnoses were offered; brain damage, aphasia, psychological problems.

For three fruitless years Jennifer's parents continued their search for help, finally bringing the then six year old to North Shore Children's where she was given an intensive three-hour speech and hearing evaluation.

"Jennifer was a good little actress," Miss Averell recalls. Like most children, she wanted to please. When tested, she smiled and nodded as if she actually were hearing tones or words presented her.

The little girl didn't fool the patient audiologist. The ultimate diagnosis was made: Jennifer had a severe hearing loss.

A hearing aid has opened a new world for Jennifer. The first day she wore it home a number of exciting things happened, her mother recalls. The child was amazed water made noise running from a faucet. She realized for the first time her baby brother could talk. The television was too loud for her. And she began to ask questions, dozens of questions. For the first time in her life she could really communicate.

Jennifer's speech also began improving, and in six months' time her articulation and ability to make sounds correctly increased from a three year level to that of a six year old.

Today Jennifer is in public school, holding her own with children with normal hearing. She is bright, happy, active in sports, Scouts and church. The difficult, unhappy, withdrawn child of five years ago is merely a memory.

It is for children like Cindy and Jennifer, Dr. Vallis said, that the communicative disorders effort at North Shore Children's must be expanded. Teams such as his have the capabilities to perform what can only be described as minor miracles for unfortunate children. All they need now is the place to work their wonders.

Rabbi To Address Service

At the Sabbath Eve. Service on Friday, March 19, Rabbi Harry A. Roth of Temple Emanuel of Lawrence will discuss the life and contributions of Rabbi, Dr. Nelson Glueck, past president of the Hebrew Union College and a world renowned archeologist, who died Feb. 13, 1971.

The World Jewish Community lost a towering figure with the passing of Rabbi Nelson Glueck, president of Hebrew Union College - Jewish Institute of Religion. Dr. Glueck in addition to serving as president of this foremost rabbinical institution was also a renowned archeologist. His vision and understanding of the Jewish heritage prompted him to be a pioneer in establishing a rabbinical institution in Israel; so American students, studying for the rabbinate in their land, would have the opportunity of spending at least one year of their studies, in Israel. The life of this great scholar, teacher and leader will provide inspiration and guidance to generations of American rabbis.

Fate Of School Addition In Balance

The fate of Article 70, for construction of the Doherty School Addition is about to be decided (if town meeting gets through its business before Mayday!) and the Curious Citizen wonders which way it's going to go.

Last March voters appropriated $12,000 for preliminary plans for the Doherty Addition.

At last October's town meeting, Andover voters saw the educational specifications and preliminary drawings and approved $80,000 for completion of working drawings by the architectural firm of Crimp, Brown and Fisher, for construction of an addition to the Doherty School, some renovation of the present Doherty School, and playstead development.

The architect's drawings are now complete, put out to bid, and the last of the bids is due today. The plans have the approval of the Doherty Addition building committee, the school committee, the finance committee and the state's School Building Assistance Commission, necessary for 40 percent reimbursement. Article 70 is ready for voting on the $1,900,500 for construction of the addition, an open concept plan for 12 classrooms, plus four more rooms for science, arts and crafts, and special education, a gym to bring the physical education teaching stations up to the number required by the state, and the Instructional Materials Center (library) adequate to serve students in Doherty and the new classrooms. Completion should bring Doherty sixth grades, now farmed out to West Elementary School back to Doherty by the fall of 1974.

But the issue is in doubt. Taxpayers alarmed over inflation, recession and their tax bills cut the municipal budget last week, and cut well over $100,000 out of the school budget Monday night. Will they now flush down the drain, construction of an elementary school addition they have twice approved, along with $92,000 already spent, when the school authorities say the addition is absolutely necessary to the system?

The Curious Citizen looks at the reasons for opposition and finds they are made up of the big one -- the economy -- and another closely related one -- parental dissatisfaction, spreading to the sixth grade parents of three districts, at the length of time West School is taking to shake down into a smoothly running operation in its open concept plan. Some come to the conclusion that the floor plan is at fault, justifying their voting against the expense of the Doherty Addition, another open concept plan. Other parents conclude that lack of teacher preparation, the sheer fact of having the teachers and ten classfulls of children from three different school districts, including many new teachers, are the chaotic factors, but factors which should yield to faculty preparation, planning and time -- or school construction to relieve this situation. Some citizens will vote against the Doherty Addition because they are alarmed at their tax rate, while others alarmed at their tax rate will vote for it, on the basis that the school addition is needed to relieve overcrowding at several schools, plus the annual pupil increase that still continues, and that the town cannot afford to put off construction when school building costs are rising 1 1/2 percent a month.

The Curious Citizen wondered about the situation at Doherty now, and checked in with Principal Ed Regan this week. How about teaching going on in the corridors? Ed Regan says that's better than trying to provide phys ed for 575 students when the gym is closed down for two hours of the school day for lunch.

As for the corridors, he explained that he has helping teachers taking groups out of the classrooms to the corridor areas for reading, math (also on the stage) and science (Jackson.) PTO parents have been upset about the necessity.

"We could put the groups back in the classrooms, but in single classrooms of that size that are over crowded, it is distracting to the children to have two teachers working with different groups. They keep hearing the other teacher."

Regan says the first, second, fourth and fifth grades of his K-5 school are crowded, but he says the point of the Doherty Addition is that it is not just for one district alone, but for the whole system. He said construction of the Doherty Addition will bring the Doherty sixth grades back from the West School, relieve Shawsheen and Bancroft of overcrowding, providing breathing room for the system at West. The addition would also let Doherty convert its inadequate library into other uses, by providing an instructional materials center in the addition for all pupils, located between the present Doherty building and the addition's new pupil areas. Doherty pupils will also profit from use of the art and science rooms, which they have never had, Regan said.

Principal Ed Regan told the TOWNSMAN he was instituting week-long teacher exchanges between some of his teachers and teachers in open concept programs in other parts of the system, so that his teachers can operate for a week on a team experienced in open concept programs, to see for themselves, and report back, what areas they need to prepare themselves in, so that they will be ready when the Doherty Addition is completed in 1974.

The Curious Citizen went next to Miss Isabel Dobbie, principal of the West School, a school deeply involved in the issue of the Doherty Addition.

"On the basis of numbers alone, the Doherty School Addition is necessary," Miss Dobbie stated flatly.

"Another thing: the original plan at West School was to have the 3rd and 4th graders in one area together and the 5th and 6th graders in another area. Of course we can't yet use the building the way it was planned, because of the 6th grades from Shawsheen and Doherty. The sixth graders use the 10 classrooms of one area - capacity 250 - and there are 264 of them now.

We're still using supply closets for tutoring and musical instrument instruction - hard to believe when you've just built a new building. Every inch of space is being used almost every minute of the day, with few exceptions - we don't have any spare room.

"We have picked up 24 new students just since September. We figure we'll have 980 students next year! But this is what we need to do, until the Doherty Addition is built."

Miss Dobbie reminisced about the West School's history: "You name it; we've done it. West was built in 1952, and we were crowded the day we moved in. So crowded we soon could hold just the first three grades.

"Then, in 1956, after three months of double sessions, we finished and got into our first addition, and were back to being a K-6 building - for a year or two. But we were soon down to a K-4 building, for lack of space again. Our upper grades went to Stowe.

"In 1962, the town built the Sanborn School, and redistricted, so we went back to being a K-6 building again. But by 1968, we were so overcrowded again that the 6th grades, and a small group of 5th graders, went to West Junior High for two years -- just as the Doherty and Shawsheen 6th graders are now coming here -- until our addition was ready this fall. Then we got our sixth grades back again -- with plenty of interest!

"I can remember when that first addition was being built in 1956, one of my teachers taking her son to the barbershop heard someone expounding: 'Why are they building an addition? There's no need for it!' at that point, we were so overcrowded that we had room for only the kids up through the 3rd grade. When people aren't directly affected by it, they don't realize what's going on! When kids are sitting on the steps waiting for desk space -- it's too late."

"Just the fact that you have to move children out of their district means you need the building."

Graduates

Robert Hanson, 28 Hidden Road, was among the students at Colorado State University, Fort Collins, Colo., who was eligible for graduation at the completion of the winter quarter, March 10.

Productivity of marine life is limited to rich waters over the continental shelves. Seventy percent of all usable fish and shellfish spend a crucial part of their lives in estuaries, coastal bays, wetlands and river mouths, the Massachusetts Audubon Society points out.
